of the Forty-Ninth Congress—A Shorter
Document Than the Previous One—Important Features of the Message.

The president recommends placing the consular service on a better footing and reiterates the necessity of some mode of inspection and report of the manner in which the consulates are conducted.

He trusts international copyright will receive the attention it deserves by congress.

He recommends that provision be made

It has been the policy of the government to collect the principal part of its revenues from a tax upon imports; and no change in this policy is to be contemplated. The system of affairs constrains our people to demand, that by a revision of our revenue laws, the receipts of the government as a whole be increased, and that the revenue of the economical administrator, and the nation should be recognized and elevated. In this the representatives in the legislative body of the country have been successful.

In reducing the burthens of Federal taxation, a sound public policy requires that our citizens as have but little tax and imports should be reduced. The government should not be suddenly and to the injury deprived of advantages to which it has adapted their business; but if the government requires it they should be compensated with the same. It is to be done cautiously with their interests in view.

Just demand of the people is, relief from the burden of taxation. In some cases, however, the demand is timely and the relief required should certainly be possible with principal and interest of the debt. The Supreme Court has not yet ruled on a recent decision of the supreme court of the United States. It has been adjudged that the several States are not empowered to regulate interstate commerce. If such regulation interferes with the free carriage of earnings from one state into another. This important field of control and regulation has been left to the Federal Government, the expediency of Federal action on the subject is unworthy of consideration.

Of the relations of labor to commerce president thinks that when the Federal Government employs a man, it is at a stage as to result in the interstate commerce between the states, the operation of arbitration by the general government is not a violation of the interstate, constitutional powers, and he thinks it reasonable power that such arbitration be carefully selected and controlled so that it will not result in a settlement of the matter of less extent and not in the exercise of force, and regulation.

JOHN M. STOCKTON, agent for Mrs. S. C. Pearce, sold yesterday the garden lot in the rear of her residence on Wall street to Mr. William Wornall for one thousand dollars, equal to cash.

How often do we hear of the sudden fatal termination of a case of croup, when a young life might have been saved by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Be wise in time, and keep a bottle of it on hand, ready for instant use.

SOKE of the new crop of tobacco in Fleming County has been sold at four cents a pound in winter order. The Times-Democrat thinks there's no money in it for the grower at that price, and the Democrat is about correct. There isn't.

The public should be in mind that the genuine diamond-leaf spectacles, which have proved themselves the best in the world, bear the trade mark, a small diamond, and the name Ballenger stamped on every pair. For sale by Ballenger, jeweler.

PURSE out the lurking distemper that undermines health, and constitutional vigor will return. Those who suffer from an enfeebled and disordered state of the system, should take Ayer's Sarsaparilla to cleanse the blood and restore vitality.

GARRETT P. SULLIVAN, who moved from this county some years ago to the vicinity of Mt. Sterling, gathered ripe strawberries from his garden on the third day of last month. His son, Henry, has gone West, and is keeping "bachelor's hall" somewhere in Kansas.

The marriage of Mr. Alex. H. Calvert and Mrs. Lucy C. Reed will be solemnized to-morrow at the bride's residence near Lewisburg. Both parties have a host of friends throughout the county who will join with the BULLETIN in hearty congratulations over the approaching nuptials.

A SPECIAL to the Courier-Journal from Washington, D. C., says that Mr. Speed, the publisher, of that city, and Miss Dorra Murray, of Washington, Ky., will be married at the residence of the bride except next Thursday. The Courier-Journal's correspondent is probably mistaken as to the home of the bride.

Tax contest for Councilman in the Fifth ward promises to be a triangular one. Messrs. John Blanchard and George Fleming are already in the field, and we understand that Mr. Samuel J. Daugherty is being urged by his many friends to make the race. If Mr. Daugherty should respond to the solicitation of his friends, increased interest will be added to the fight.

Mr. WILLIAM H. COX responds to the flattering call made upon him last week and announces to-day that he is a candidate for Councilman in the First ward. It was the earnest wish of many of our citizens that he make the race and now that he has signified his intention to run, his friends should go to work to see that he is elected. Certainly, they could not work for a better man, and one better qualified to watch over the city's interests.

THE LUCKY BOYS.

$15,000 for $3.00 Invested.

Fortune has smiled on Edward H. and George Washington Laycock and T. L. Pendell, farmers and tobacco raisers living near Keeney, Ky., bringing them a sum of money larger than could be made by years of toil and strict economy. They invested $1 each and purchased three one-fifth tickets in the Louisiana State Lottery at New Orleans. One of these proved to be a one-fifth of ticket No. 94,552, which drew the capital prize of $75,000 at the regular drawing on November 9th. On learning of their great fortune they played their ticket in the hands of the First National Bank in this city, and by return mail received a check for $15,000, giving them $5,000 each on the one dollar invested. They were delighted to find that they had struck it so rich. They are hard-working, industrious tobacco raisers, and all their friends are gratified at their good luck. They call themselves the "Lucky Boys." They advise all of their friends to try the royal road to fortune through the Louisiana State Lottery—Lexington (Ky.) Press, Nov. 27.

Of Interest to All.

"Under the new Revenue law," says an exchange, "the Assessor is only required to call once upon a taxpayer, and if he fails to find him at home, he may leave the inventory for the taxpayer to fill up, and when such a blank is left, it is sufficient notice that the list must be made out and handed to the assessor. And this must be done before December 15th or the delinquent is liable to have his assessment estimated, then trebled, and then to pay a fine of $100 for the delinquency. This law will be enforced, and all who have not already done so will consult their own interest and peace of mind by handing in their lists without delay, knowing that pains and penalties will be upon them if they delay this matter too long."

The cold weather has interfered to a great extent with work on the rail road. At present there is but little being done by the contractors.

The complimentary benefit to Professor A. H. Knoll will be given by the First Regiment Band on the 15th of this month in the opera house instead of the court house. An interesting programme is being arranged, and the entertainment promises to be most pleasant one.

The suicidal mania is becoming epidemic at Cynthiana. Three of her citizens have taken their lives within almost as many weeks. The latest was that of Charles B. Snodgrass, who took his life Saturday night. He was a young man of excellent habits, and assigned as his reason for the rash act that he had been wrongfully accused of taking five dollars from his employer. Snodgrass' father died of heart disease four minutes after he heard the news, and the mother is not expected to survive this shock.

The literary and musical entertainment in the Christian Church last night was but a repetition of past successes. The popularity of these exercises is attested by the fact that long before the hour for opening last evening, the spacious room of the church was crowded to its fullest seating capacity. "Standing room" was in demand, and many, no doubt, were turned away. The literary part of the programme consisted of a select reading by Miss Lena Means, a recitation by Miss Jennie Mayhugh, a dialogue between four little Misses, pupils of the Sunday school, an address by Attorney Courtney C. D. Newell, and the reading of the "Literary Venture," a manuscript paper edited by Miss Jennie Clifford Taylor and Miss Alice Lloyd. The "Literary Venture" was a new feature of these entertainments, and it received a hearty welcome from the audience. Its spicy paragraphs and brief comments on local doings, afforded convincing evidence that the pen of the fair journalist, to whom the BULLETIN, in cordial greeting, offers its hand. The literary exercises were interspersed with vocal and instrumental music, given in part by Miss Lida Smoot, Miss Jennie Judd, Miss Lottie Berry, Mrs. M. C. Russell, Miss Lydia Herry, and Messrs. G. S. Judd, T. L. Holton, James Threlkeld and others. One of the most pleasant features of the evening was the recitation of the violin recital, to have the bond scraped or leg amputated. A Request From the Assessor.

County Assessor John R. Burgess requests all persons with whom he has left blanks to make out same at once and return them to the County Clerk's office. The new Revenue law requires Assessors to make out their report by the 15th of this month. By reference to an article elsewhere, it will be seen that a penalty of $100 is provided for, for failure to fill out and return the blanks referred to.

Professor Chamberlain's Benefit.

Editor Bulletin: We are glad to see that the managers of the opera house have decided to give Professor C. B. Chamberlain a beautiful benefit on December 22nd. The music-loving people of this city do not realize, perhaps, how much they owe to Professor Chamberlain. He has been instrumental in bringing some of the best music organizations in the world, such as the Canillo Trio, the Mendelson Quintette Club and others, thus giving the people of this city opportunities for hearing the best music, which they never enjoyed before. Besides this, Professor Chamberlain is ever ready to take part in every entertainment for any good cause, and has freely given his time and his talent, without money and without price, to all such objects. He has always furnished the best instruments from his store, and his efforts have done everything in the way he could to educate and develop the musical talent of our city. In view of these things, we hope that all citizens will lend their power to make his benefit a success. It is not a donation that is asked, as we understand that an attractive programme will be presented, and every purchaser of a ticket will get full value of his money. Let none refuse to patronize this entertainment. A FAIRY.
